

International Rail Transport Committee
Comité international des transports ferroviaires
Internationales Eisenbahntransportkomitee

The International Rail Transport Committee (CIT) is an association of some 200 railway undertakings from Europe, the Maghreb and Middle East. It aims to implement the international rail transport law of OTIF and the EU on undertakings' level and as such forms the interface between law and practice in an international context.

The General Secretariat of the CIT in Bern is looking for the ideal candidate to join its team on 1 September 2017 (or as agreed) as a

Lawyer (f/m) specialised in passenger traffic (100%)

As a lawyer specialised in passenger traffic within our team you will participate in international projects and work on the development and implementation of documents and rules of international rail passenger traffic. Your scope of work would include the following tasks, among others:

- Legal support and development of CIT's passenger traffic products
- Processing of dossiers from a legal perspective within the framework of the CIV Working Group and the CIV Committee;
- Preparation of the annual CIV Committee meeting as well as working group meetings in the field of passenger traffic (invitations, working documents, minutes of meetings);
- Assisting in the preparation and performance of passenger claims departments' conferences;
- Legal counselling of CIT members on passenger traffic issues;
- Writing of articles for the CIT-Info;
- Representing the interests of the CIT in international meetings and conferences at home and abroad.

You have legal education and knowledge of European and/or international carriage of passengers by. Your understanding of legal issues allows you to implement statutory requirements correctly and pragmatically. The working language is predominantly English, which you speak and write concisely, and can skilfully and confidently negotiate in. You also have good command of French and/or German. And, if you also like to travel, then you are the perfect fellow employee.

We are a small, motivated team that can offer progressive working conditions and advancement opportunities in a dynamic international environment.

Interested? Then send your application before 20 May 2017 by mail to the CIT Secretary General, Cesare Brand, at International Rail Transport Committee (CIT), Weltpoststrasse 20, 3015 Bern.
